5 ENTRIES IN HOG CONTEST

NODAWAY COUNTIES TO COMPETE IN PORK PRODUCTION.

GOOD PRIZES OFFERED

Roy Lippman, With 256 Pigs, Has Largest Number.—Sponsored by Kansas City C. of C.

Five Nodaway County farmers have entered the Missouri Hog Production Championship Contest, according to entries received by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. Thirty contestants from ten counties have entered so far. This championship contest is supervised by the Missouri College of Agriculture and supplements the Missouri Hog Production Contest being conducted by the college.

The Nodaway county entries are Roy Lippman, Maryville, with 28 sows farrowing 256 pigs; Alfred Jones, Maryville, 15 sows, 111 pigs; George Hepburn, Hopkins, 4 sows, 41 pigs; E. R. Adams, Maryville, 4 sows, 40 pigs; and Northwest Missouri Teachers College, Maryville, 8 sows and 56 pigs.

Six of these contestants have fifteen or more sows and must make their litter average 1400 pounds at six months in order to qualify. Five having ten to fourteen sows must average 1500 pounds; eight with six to nine sows, 1600 pounds; and the remaining eight contestants must have their litters averaging 1800 pounds at six months of age. Every contestant meeting these requirements will receive a gold medal. In each county having five or more entries a county championship trophy will go to the contestant who exceeds his requirements by the greatest percentage. The county trophies are offered by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, as are also the following state prizes for the contestants who produce the highest average litter weight in their respective classes: class of 15 sows or more $100; class of 10 to 14 sows $100; class of 6 to 9 sows $75; class of 3 to 5 sows $50.

From the champions of these four classes the best hog producer of Missouri will be selected and presented a state championship trophy by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

That this has been a difficult spring for saving pigs is shown by the low average of 8.3 pigs for the 271 sows in the contest. George Tattman, Harrisonville, has the highest average of contestants with fifteen or more sows. He has 21 sows raising 204 pigs or an average of 9.71 per litter. George Hepburn, Hopkins, has four sows with 41 pigs. The largest entry is by Roy Lippman, Maryville, with 256 sows, or an average of 9.14 pigs.

The counties which have farmers entered in the contest and the number from each Bates 2, Cass 7, Chariton 1, Clinton 3, Howard 2, Johnson 1, Nodaway 5, Platte 6, Pike 2, and DeKalb 1. Further entries are expected.

The committee in charge of conducting the contest and making the awards: E. A. Trowbridge, chairman; L. A. Weaver and J. W. Burch, all of the Animal Husbandry Department, Missouri College of Agriculture; A. M. Paterson, assistant secretary, American Royal Live Stock Show, and Geo. W. Catts, agricultural commissioner, Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City.

Edward Vulgamott, 52 years old, died at 8:19 o'clock last night at the home of his son, Spencer Vulgamott, north of the Maryville Country Club. Mr. Vulgamott had been in poor health for several years, but he was bedfast only two days.

Fire at Substation Makes Towns Dark

Maryville Power Line To King City Disabled Last Night.—Arkoe Line Also Out Of Order.

Several towns were left in darkness last night when the Rosendale substation of the Maryville Electric Light and Power Co. caught fire and burned about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Repairs were not completed until shortly after 9 o'clock. Meanwhile Barnard, Bolekow, Guilford, Rosendale, Whitesville, Rea and King City were without electric current, and the old fashioned lamps and candles were dug from attics and pressed into service.

Arkoe also was without light when a transformer there, installed only a few weeks ago, was disabled by lightning. The blaze at Rosendale also was blamed upon lightning, which broke an insulator.

Service to Arkoe was not restored until today.

ONE COMPLETES WORK

North Prairie Health and First Aid Group Finishes Program.—Four Baby Beef Clubs Under Way.

1927 is to be Nodaway's biggest 4-H club year.

At any rate that is the aim of J. Rosa Fleetwood, county agent, and the club work has gone off with a bang so far.

One club, North Prairie Health and First Aid, already has completed its work for the year. Four baby beef clubs have been organized and two garment making clubs are under way.

Besides the clubs already organized there are many others in the process of formation. Mr. Fleetwood announced. A garment making club, second year, at Burlington Junction, under the leadership of Mrs. Phil Corken, is one of the clubs about to be formed. Others in this class are: Garment making I. Knabb community, Miss Wilma Hall, local leader; Garment making II, at Harmony under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Cox; Rockford Sow and Litter Club, local leader, Dale Partridge; Rockford garment making club II, under Mrs. Jerry Fisher; and garment making clubs, I, II, and III, at Graham with Mrs. Wood Mowry as local leader.

"There may be more and we hope there are," Mr. Fleetwood said. Any one who wants to form a club is urged to call Mr. Fleetwood.

Girl Swallows Pin; Undergoes Operation

4-Year-Old Dorothy Pearson Of Pickering In Hospital Here.—Abdominal Abscess Formed.

Dorothy Pearson, 4 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pearson who live near Pickering, is in the St. Francis Hospital, ill from the effects of a pin which she swallowed eight days ago. She underwent an operation yesterday for the removal of the pin, but it had passed into the lower intestines. The pin had pierced the lining of the stomach, ulcerated and had formed an abdominal abscess, which was drained by the physicians. If the pin is not eliminated naturally another operation will be necessary.

The little girl became ill eight days ago and was believed to have stomach trouble. It was not until she was brought here that an X-ray examination revealed the presence of the pin.

PLAYERS HERE MONDAY NIGHT

COFFER MILLER CO. TO REMAIN TUESDAY ALSO.

SENIOR PLAY SCORES

"Smilin' Through" Repeats Success Before Large Audience in College Auditorium.

The Coffe-Miller players, noted for their presentations of classic comedies, will appear at the State Teachers College auditorium Monday and Tuesday night. On Monday night they will give Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," and on the following evening the play will be "Love in Livery."

For many years Jess Coffe and Martha Miller have been building a reputation for the manner in which their companies present the classics. Their appearances have included every type of dramatic work, and this summer they are making a tour of leading universities of the country.

It was through a personal friendship with Coffe and Miller, who in private life are Mr. and Mrs. Jess Coffe, that President Uel W. Lamkin was able to secure them for appearances in Maryville. It was first thought that the company would be able to be in Maryville but one day, and would have to give a matinee and an evening performance. Mr. Lamkin received a telegram this week, however, that the company could be here on Tuesday as well as Monday, and it was decided to have but one performance each day.

Followers of drama need no introduction to "She Stoops to Conquer" and "Love in Livery." They are the kind of plays which grow more charming to the audience with each presentation. No doubt many persons in Maryville have seen both plays, but they border onto Shakespearean productions in that people return time and again to see them.

Reserved seats for the plays may be secured at Kuchs Bros. Students of the college may take advantage of activity coupons to see the plays. One minor coupon and 25 cents will admit them.

The plays given by the Coffe-Miller players form a part of the entertainment program for the summer quarter at the college. This entertainment program opened last night when the graduating class of the school presented for the second time in as many weeks "Smilin' Through." A large audience was present last night, and the comment was that the play was even better than when presented during commencement week.

The play was directed by Miss Blanche Dow, of the college dramatics department. Elaborate scenic and lighting effects aided the play materially.

An orchestra prelude to the play was good. The musicians played "Smilin' Through," with the melody by the first violin.

All characters were exceptionally good, but starring honors probably should go to Gordon Roach, who played the part of John Carteret, the tender-hearted, quick tempered old man, and (Continued on page 2).

Delmar Schooler to Attend State Fair

Boy From Bell Grove District Is Only One to Take Exam to Represent County.

Delmar W. Schooler, who won the county scholarship this spring, was the only boy to take the state fair examination, conducted by Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, at the High School yesterday. Mr. Somerville said that Delmar would be sent to the state fair school as the representative from this county, which will be held during the state fair at Sedalia during August.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schooler, and attended the Bell Grove school.

GOVERNOR TO PAY $650,000

ILLINOIS COMPROMISES SUIT AGAINST LEN SMALL.

TO PAY ON JULY 15

Former Treasurer Obtains Reduction in Claim from $803,000.—Ends Litigation.

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—The state of Illinois today settled its interest suit against Governor Len Small for $650,000.

This is the sum that Attorney General Carlstrom and the governor agreed the latter should pay into the state treasury on July 15, in settlement of all interest the state contends Small collected during his term as state treasurer.

The state contended Small owed the state approximately $803,000, but admitted several items in the latter amount were controversial and agreed to accept $650,000, rather than continue the litigation, which has cost the state, as well as the governor, thousands of dollars.

Two More Teachers Taking Exams Today

Total of Those Seeking State Certificates Mounts to 46.—Grading at Jefferson City.

Two other young women were taking the teachers examinations at the High School today besides the forty-four persons who enrolled early yesterday.

Miss Mildred Dunn of Gilman City reported late yesterday afternoon and Mrs. Sylvia Adecock of Ravenwood, enrolled today.

Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, who is in charge of the examinations, for first, second and third grade certificates, said the grades would be sent out after the papers are graded at the state department at Jefferson City, which will probably require more than two weeks.

To Undergo Operation

Robert Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Wagner, will undergo an operation for appendicitis at St. Francis Hospital Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kissing and son, Jerry, spent today in Savannah and St. Joseph.

COLUMBIA PLANE HEADS TOWARD PARIS OR ROME

SEA FLIERS LAST REPORTED OVER YARMOUTH, NOVA SCOTIA.

IS OFF BERLIN COURSE

Clarence Chamberlain And Charles Levine Leave Roosevelt Field At 6:05 A. M.—Over Land-bergh's Route.

Washington, June 4.—The Columbia plane's apparent flight over Yarmouth, Nova Scotia indicates its pilots are headed, not toward Berlin, but toward Paris and Rome, two naval hydrograph experts said today. They charted several weather maps on the Lindbergh flight and were within an hour of estimating his correct arrival time in Paris.

Yarmouth was 85 miles off the logical route from New York to Berlin, they said.

New York, June 4.—Clarence Chamberlain, with Charles Levine for company, has headed east by airplane over the route which led Charles Lindbergh to fame.

At 6:05 eastern daylight time, they roared away from Roosevelt Field, in the sturdy monoplane which already holds a record of having flown longer than any other airplane in the world.

Up to the moment when Chamberlain was speeding his motor for the start, the mystery surrounding who would be his companion on the trip was as deep as ever. Then Levine, owner of the plane, dashed up and jumped into the cockpit, while his wife ran toward him, shrieking.

The plane tried twice on the take-off and on the second attempt took the air gracefully and was away.

The word went out that the destination would be Berlin but Chamberlain said he didn't know. He might go to Paris, Berlin or Rome, or even Moscow, if his gasoline supply held out.

Experiencing No Trouble.

The Columbia was estimated to be flying from 100 to 120 miles an hour when last sighted and seemed to be experiencing no trouble. Chamberlain was keeping his craft low, about 150 feet above the water.

The plane was first sighted in Nova Scotia. At this stage the Columbia was about ninety miles behind the schedule maintained by Lindbergh.

Flying east from Halifax, the Columbia may not be sighted from Newfoundland.

Over Halifax at 12:40 p. m.

Halifax, Nova Scotia, June 4.—Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine, in the Bellanca plane, Columbia, flew over Halifax, Alta Harbor at 12:40 p. m. Eastern Standard time today. Honors Await Them.

Berlin, June 4.—Banquets and great honor await Chamberlain and Levine if they come to Berlin at the end of their transatlantic flight.

Plans are being made for the reception, but elaborate arrangements are being held off until more word of the fliers is received.

BACK TO THEIR FLOODED LAND

VICTIMS BEGIN THE RETURN TO "SUGAR BOWL."

SMILE IN ADVERSITY

Waters in North Recede Slowly—Control of River Declared a Government Duty.

New Orleans, June 4.—Smilingly, the flood refugees of the "Sugar Bowl" area of Louisiana are returning to their homes, intent upon rebuilding following floods which swept down their crops and damaged their homes.

Almost to a man the returning refugees smiled in the face of the adversity that have confronted them since the muddy flood waters of the Mississippi went over their lands.

The refugee camp in the district will be emptied as fast as possible, and June 8 already has been set as the tentative date of general evacuation.

The flood waters in the northern part of the district are receding slowly. In the southern part there is a gradual rise but of no alarming proportions.

Declared Government Problem.

Chicago, June 4.—Flood control was declared to be a government problem and bridling of the Mississippi one in which the government should take immediate action, by the resolutions committee in reporting to the Flood Control Congress today.

The resolution is expected to be adopted.

The committee recommended that President Coolidge be requested to call a conference formed in conjunction with all government agencies, to work out a plan of flood control.

The flood congress became a permanent organization created to carry out the plans embodied in the resolution. The plan was presented by Bennett Clark, son of the late Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri.

Capt. Wilkins to Fly in South Pole Region

To Complete Work There—Harry Atwood Revealed Maker of Transatlantic Airplane.

Melbourne, Australia, June 4.—Captain George Wilkins, explorer, plans to fly in the region of the South Pole, according to a wireless message received today by the Australian premier.

Wilkins has spent several years in the Arctic and it is hoped to complete his work in that region. The explorer had been reported missing since April 1 but word of his safety at Point Barrow was received last week.

Atwood Makes Huge Plane.

Boston, June 4.—The Boston Traveler in a copyright article today disclosed the identity of the aviator behind the project to operate transatlantic planes. The man is Harry N. Atwood, who startled the aviation world in 1912 by shattering the then existing aviation record. Atwood said, "The plane will be very big. I will not divulge its design."

Chicago Beer Runner Is Shot in Colorado

Glenwood Springs, Colo., June 4.—An echo of the war between beer runners in Chicago was heard in Colorado today, when Diamond Jack Altarie, reformed gunman and ranch owner, was shot from ambush today. Altarie refused to discuss the shooting.

Abandoned farms in the East are being reforested. Will pioneers ever be needed to clear those forests again for agriculture?

There is still room at the top but it takes a clear head and a steady nerve to stay there.

No wonder the Sesqui Centennial Exposition was a failure. Pennsylvania folks spent all their money on the primaries.

Here are two things a good many people might do well to remember. A chicken never stops scratching because the worms are scarce and to be useful in this world even a pin must have a head and a needle must keep its eye open.

Players Here Monday Night

Miss Dorothy England, as Kathleen Dunganon, a typical, whimsical, witty Irish girl, very much a coquette but deeply in love with Kenneth Wayne, son of her uncle's enemy of fifty years.

Orval Adams' acting was good, both as the old crony of Carteret and when he played the part of the youth—the best man who was always misplacing the wedding ring.

Wilson Craig was equally good as Willie Ainley, the good and devoted but unencouraged suitor for Kathleen's hand. Ellen, devoted maid, was a part well played by Ethel Bostwick, and Frieda Bennett, with a beautiful speaking voice, was thoroughly satisfactory as the bride-to-be of Carteret, killed by a shot intended for Carteret by the rejected lover Jeremiah Wayne, played by Fred Street. Miss Bennett wore a dress which belonged to Mrs. Helen Hopkins, mother of Miss Carrie Hopkins.

Others in the cast, all of them well fitted for their roles were Burdette Yoo, as Kenneth Wayne; Mary Esther O'Banion, as Sara Wayne; Ruby Goodwin, as Mary Clare; Misses Nelle Castle, Helen Qualls and Margaret Mills as the first, second and third ladies; Ora McPherson, Merlin Warhime and Guy Canady, as the first, second and third gentlemen; and John Hathaway, who doubled for Gordon Rouch at the final curtain.

Outstanding in the performance of the entire cast was the naturalness of all members, and the lack of overdone emotionalism. Make-ups were splendid.

This and That

From Nodaway Democrat twenty years ago:

W. P. Carpenter and F. S. Travers hooked all records for auto runs between St. Joseph and Maryville last night. Leaving St. Joseph at 6 p. m. they arrived at Maryville at exactly 9 p. m., making the sixty miles in three hours. These men have the agency for the Buick machines at Turkio and were taking the machines overland on a trip for speed.—St. Joseph Gazette.

One and three-quarters hours is fair time for the ordinary driver in 1927—with good roads.

I am going to change the name of this column to "Woodhull Notes," so often have I quoted the Rev. W. S. Woodhull of the First Methodist Church, but this is one he told today. A woman owned a dog that bit a tramp.

The next day the woman was out walking with the dog when she met a policeman.

The policeman asked, "How's your dog?"

And the woman did.

If you don't understand the story spell "how's" this way—"house."

NOW FOR A NICE QUIET VACATION IN THE GREAT OPEN SPACES.

Platte Purchase--Holy Land of the Indians-- Added to Missouri 91 Years Ago Next Week

Compiled by the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia.
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary.

On June 7, 1836, ninety-one years ago next week, by act of Congress, the land known as the "Platte Purchase" country—the holy land of the Indians—was ceded to Missouri. In September of the same year the Purchase Treaty was signed and in December the matter was approved by the Missouri legislature. On March 28, 1837 by proclamation of President Van Buren the Indian title to the territory was extinguished and the new boundary laws went into effect, making larger a state already the largest in the Union by extending its boundaries westward to the Missouri river.

This tract of land, comprising 2,000,000 acres was at first a part of the Iowa territory and was later ceded to the Indians for their permanent location. Because of its fine streams, its abundant game and its rich soil, as well as for its proximity to the Missouri river, the land was coveted by the white men but they dared not enter this garden spot for it was regarded as the inviolable property of the red man.

The pioneers had it from the Indians that here was holy land, a place of peace to which the warring tribes from as far west as the Rockies could come to rest, to hunt, to make treaties, to heal their sick, to bury their dead, and once a year to hear the prophecies which, as the ice broke up in the Missouri river, were signed from its waters by the catfish and interpreted to the tribes by their medicine men.

This was a rendezvous to which fled the shudder of blood, but here also was the resting place of armies, the meeting place of diplomats, the parliament of tribal rulers, the congress of religions, the haven of the desolate, and the beginning of that long but pleasant road to the Happy Hunting Grounds, according to Mary Alicia Owen, Missouri's foremost authority on international folklore.

During the sixteen years prior to its annexation to Missouri the land was held by the Sacs and Foxes, the Iowas and a part of the Pottawatomies. These Indians were described as "a poor miserable, drunken set of beings, quivering away to almost nothing, quarreling among themselves, killing each other, and in constant broils with their white neighbors." To the energetic pioneer shut out from the rich country by a race which he considered unfit to occupy it, the situation was not to be tolerated long. White settlers attempted to occupy the land by force but were speedily expelled by federal forces located at Fort Leavenworth.

In the summer of 1835 a regimental militia muster was held at Dale's farm, three miles from Liberty, where definite action was taken to obtain the territory. The committee presented a memorial to Congress and a bill embodying its suggestions was introduced by Senator Thomas Hart Benton, who gives all credit for the bill's passage to his colleague, Lewis F. Linn, the "model senator from Missouri."

After the passage of the bill in 1836, a treaty was concluded at Fort Leavenworth between the chiefs of the Iowa tribe and the band of the Sacs and Foxes of the Missouri, and William Clark, the superintendent of Indian affairs. "Red Head" Clark was the constant friend and protector of the red man and held their entire confidence. According to the treaty drawn up by Clark the tribes were to move across the Missouri to a tract of four hundred sections and to receive a bounty of $7,500—$7,500 for 2,000,000 acres of choice land—yet considering the value of the time the price was proper, no doubt.

The occupation of the new land was begun with breathless haste. Nearly every section was taken up before the Indians had removed.

The development of the Platte Purchase in so short a time is truly remarkable. It is the territory "where romance flourished, and history was made with speed."

The Platte Purchase territory now embraces the counties of Andrew, Atchison, Buchanan, Holt, Nodaway and Platte. It has one of the largest bodies of brown loess soil to be found anywhere in the world. Only the Rhine valley and portions of the Yangtze valley in China rival it. It is a wind-blown soil formed by the winds coming from the southwest and depositing layer upon layer of the choicest of soil materials. Little wonder that it was thought of by the red men as the "beginning of the road to Paradise."

of Drennan & Williams is also south of the depot. Mr. Thomas Shoemaker, proprietor of the Valley House, has been adding ornamental improvements to his premises. The Maryville fountain is located near the hotel. Mr. Armstrong has recently built quite a large addition.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

The first public concert of this year will be given by Cady's Maryville band in the courthouse square Thursday evening.

The summer term of the State Normal School opened Tuesday in the Central public school building. There were 181 that had paid tuition up to Wednesday noon.

S. R. Beech of this city is one of the lucky postmasters whose salary will be increased July 1. Dispatches from Washington announce that the Maryville postmaster's salary will be raised from $2,200 to $2,300 per year, effective the first of next month.

Maryville Camp No. 2052, Modern Woodmen of America, and the Royal neighbors held memorial services last Sunday afternoon.

The Nodaway county court met in session Tuesday morning. The court received an order from the state auditor instructing the court to make an order directing the treasurer to make a requisition upon the state treasurer for $4,132.15, for improvement of roads in the county.

Sheriff George L. Evans went to Leavenworth, Kan., last week and purchased a genuine Cuban bloodhound which he will use in his business, when necessary.

Fred R. Barkhurst resigned as editor of the Daily Tribune and left last week for Carthage, where he is to be managing editor of the Press.

Dr. George A. Nash and Dr. F. R. Anthony left Friday night for a two weeks' absence in the East. They will attend the national medical association in Atlantic City, and the Jamestown Exposition at Norfolk, Va. Dr. Anthony is one of four delegates from Missouri to the national medical meeting.

H. E. Wright of Parnell was appointed coal oil inspector for that place for two years by Governor Folch.

A car for her, too!

In thousands of average American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives away to work.

And the family car has such an infinite degree of usefulness! Downtown shopping, taking the children to school, afternoon calls, meeting trains—and the many additional trips that must be made to and from the house as a part of every day's routine.

No other car is so admirably suited to a woman's requirements as the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

With striking new bodies by Fisher, and finished in pleasing colors of lustrous, lasting Duco, it provides in abundant measure the comfort, charm and elegance that women admire in a motor car. It is easy to start because of its Delco-Remy electric starting system—famous the world over for its excellence. It is easy to stop because of powerful, over-size brakes. And it is easy to drive and park because of a modern three-speed transmission, smooth-acting disc clutch, and a semi-reversible steering gear that gives finger-tip steering.

And women find in Chevrolet a remarkably comfortable car. Long semi-elliptic springs extend over 88% of the wheelbase—providing easy riding over any road. The large, deeply cushioned seats are set at the most comfortable angle. Turned window regulators and remote control door handles are further fine car conveniences that women appreciate—enhancing both the comfort and beauty of the interior.

The remarkable economy of Chevrolet ownership is another vital reason for Chevrolet's wide and increasing popularity. Extremely low first cost, exceptionally high fuel and oil mileage and the very minimum of upkeep expense—all combine to make Chevrolet a car of outstanding economy.

Visit our showroom and see the Most Beautiful Chevrolet. Note the wide variety of body types. Mark their sweeping lines and carefully executed details. And then ask us to explain the easy terms on which a Chevrolet may be purchased—terms that include the lowest combination of handling and financing charges available anywhere.

OCEAN FLIGHT BOYS' DREAM

CHARLIE LINDBERGH OFTEN
PLAYED "AIRPLANE."

HIS PARACHUTES BEST

No Other Youth Could Make Them Sail
So Far.—No Place For Girls
In His Life.

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
CHAPTER V.

To the people of Little Falls, Minn., the success of Charles Lindbergh in flying to Paris is but a development of the days when he would send aloft a toy balloon or a parachute he had made himself and it would float farther than any other boy could make one float.

Then, according to one boyhood friend, when Charles had proved efficiency of his latest effort in the manufacture of parachutes, he would hoist his bicycle into a tree, make it fast, and climb into it, sitting there perhaps for hours dreaming that he was flying across the skies—maybe even then dreaming he was flying to France.

"Charlie Lindbergh always was experimenting with anything that pertained to flying," one friend of his school days in Little Falls said.

"He experimented with parachutes and toy balloons and would make toy parachutes weighted with stones or from leaves, hurl them high into the air, sometimes from out of a tree top, and watch them sail away. His parachutes would sail sometimes for blocks and were the envy of all his friends. His success so intrigued the fancies of the boys of Little Falls that soon he had them all busy making parachutes, and trying to duplicate his success. But no matter how well other boys built them, Lindbergh built better.

"He used to spend much time by himself, putting and tinkering with machinery and with his bicycle. But when the flying dreams seized him the hardest he used to hoist his bicycle into a tall tree, secure it firmly to the branches, climb into it and play that he was flying."

A Crack Bicycle Rider.

Congressman Lindbergh, Charlie's father, bought his son a bicycle when Charlie was about 10 years of age and he soon became a familiar sight riding at a breakneck pace through the village, cap on backwards and out-distancing all the other boys who tried to follow him.

But a bicycle became too slow for this lad whose soul even then seemed yearning to annihilate space, and when he was aged 15, he bought his first motorcycle. He rode it at top speed, while citizens often held their breath as he whirled by.

Next came an automobile. His first machine was an old Saxon touring car which he bought from Charles Farrow, still an automobile salesman in Little Falls.

"I recall vividly teaching young Lindbergh to drive," said Farrow. "I took him out one morning and by night he was an expert driver. He took to it like a duck to water and learned it all in one day."

Charlie drove the automobile as he had ridden his motorcycle and his bicycle, at a furious pace, yet in all his driving he never had an accident. In fact Lindbergh never has had an accident of any kind sufficiently serious to require the attention of a physician. The only time a doctor has ever attended him was when he had the measles in early childhood.

Built Suspension Bridge.

When Lindbergh was 15 years old he became irritated by the difficulties he had each day while bringing the cows in from the pasture in crossing a creek, about 30 feet wide, which flowed through the Lindbergh farm. He had to pick his way carefully across on the stones—or else get wet. So he set about in typical fashion to overcome the difficulty. He gathered together a quantity of fence wire and some timber and in a week he had erected, without help from anyone, a miniature suspension bridge 30 feet long, across the stream. The bridge was anchored to trees and fence posts and instead of being a rudely built affair, was done according to approved engineering practice throughout.

At high school Charlie was a peculiar student. He finished his course in three years, being graduated in 1918, but at no time did he take any part in any school activities, social or athletic. He was careless of his dress and his favorite costume at home was a pair of well worn overalls.

"He never paid any attention to the girls in school," Miss Bertha Rothwell, who was a classmate in high school said "and the girls never paid any attention to him because he never spruced up."

Those who knew him at the University of Wisconsin told much the same story. "He tore around wildly on a motorcycle while at the University," one classmate there said, "as a protest against the social life of the college."

"I never knew Charlie Lindbergh to wear a white shirt," said a girl who knew him at the University.

Now He's Immaculate.

It is interesting to note the change which came over Lindbergh in that regard while he was at Carleton Field, New York, making ready to fly to Paris his immaculate costume was always noticeable and even after flying from St. Louis he stepped from his plane without a spot of grease on his clothing with a stiff collar set off by a tie not a fraction of an inch askew.

Friends of Lindbergh's father remember the boy as Congressman Lindbergh's constant companion and they say that seldom are father and son seen who could be more alike.

They recall that at the age of 10 years Charlie started out with his father on a canoe trip which occupied an entire summer. They launched their canoe at the headwaters of the Mississippi River and followed the stream southward to its mouth—just the two of them paddling along in the frail boat.

"Charlie was just like his father," said Carl Bolander, real estate dealer and close friend of the elder Lindbergh.

"Congressman Lindbergh was quiet, reticent and inclined to play a lone hand. He was a man of great determination and of great courage."

To people in Little Falls it was interesting to note that the night before Lindbergh started for Paris he slept but about three hours.

"Just like his father," they said, "that's an inherited characteristic. When his father had important work in hand he forgot about sleep, working day and night almost without rest for days at a time."

A REMARKABLE NEW SIX by DODGE BROTHERS

A new line of Sixes by Dodge Brothers is presented to the public today.

It has been rumored, and hoped, for years that Dodge Brothers would ultimately produce such a line—more refined and, of course, higher in cost than their present car.

To combine the sturdy worth of Dodge Brothers standard product with those refinements which greater cost permits, could not fail, it was conceded, to produce a motor car of unique distinction and fineness.

The Senior Line is Dodge Brothers answer to this demand—and Dodge Brothers have answered well.

These are remarkable cars. Brilliantly vital and alive—surprisingly quiet—impressively smart. And built, like all Dodge Brothers motor cars, for years of dependable service.

See one and drive it and you will marvel that performance of this quality and character could be provided at a price so low.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON, employees of the big T. Q. CURTIS department store, are taken into their employer's home as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further ambitions which he has expressed. Billy, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is serious, the others having led to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMAIN, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hired mistress of the Curtis home, but she is deeply troubled when she suspects that he is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton.

Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinterested himself and is living in the Wells home in a poor part of town, working in the Truman factory by day and writing music at night.

The girls, unknown to T. Q., learn that he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up and to gain his affections, a series of intrigues, instigated by Nyda and Winnie and curiously involving Mrs. Meadows, Dal Romaine, and EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, turn the house into a hotbed of plotting and scheming.

Billy is disgusted with the whole thing and loses interest in her violin. Because she has a nervous breakdown, she leaves town for a month and believes in this time she has routed Romaine from her heart. Upon her return, however, she finds she is as much under his spell as ever. Thinking he would please Nyda, who has lied about "It doesn't say," Nyda answered. "All they know is that he did have an accomplice, some society man, they think, who wormed his way into the confidence of everyone of importance and tipped off Namir Sadh so he could scare the life out of the suckers who came to get their fortune told. Some swell scheme, believe me!" She abandoned her effort to enlighten Billy and read on, interrupting her reading with exclamations of pleased horror.

"Say, Winnie, the Holden divorce suit was caused by Namir Sadh! I told you so! Sadh got the low-down on Bert Holden—it says here—and when Holden refused to pay up, Sadh spilled the beans to Mrs. Holden and she sued Bert for a divorce."

"But—I don't understand," Billy pleaded. "Please let me see the paper. How did he work his scheme?"

Winnie volunteered to enlighten her. "Why, it was as simple as A-B-C. This accomplice of Namir Sadh's would call the fakes up two or three times a day, find out what appointments Sadh had made, then the accomplice would give him the dope on them over the phone. If he didn't have anything on them, except harmless stuff, he'd try to get something hot before Sadh saw them; and if he couldn't, or they weren't important enough, Sadh would just string

"Maybe it is," Nyda agreed.

The Namir Sadh scandal occupied front page space for three or four days, then, for lack of fresh developments, slipped into oblivion. Almost no one could be found who would appear before the district attorney and make accusations against the fugitive soothsayer, and, true to his promise to the uneasy public, the district attorney did not make use of the famous "black book" to force co-operation with his office on the part of those who had been blackmailed and defrauded.

Dal Romaine kept his promise to Billy to write, but his notes, mailed at long intervals from widely separated cities, gave no clue as to his activities. They contained little more than tender assurances of his love for her and veiled references to their secret engagement.

As weeks slipped almost monotonously into months, the restless, heart-sick girl tried to concentrate on her music, to recapture the old magic which has once filled her life with ambition and hope. But ambition seemed to have died within her. There was not room in her heart for anything but that terrible, gnawing hunger for Dal Romaine. The telephone never rang for her that she did not hurry to it with her heart pounding with a wild hope that it was his voice. The postman became the god to which she prayed, but he so seldom brought her a note from her absent lover that she grew to hate the sight of him.

Once, in her desperation, she humbled herself to ask Mrs. Meadows for news of her wandering nephew. But Mrs. Meadows could tell her little more than she already knew.

"The dear boy has so many important business interests that I cannot possibly keep up with them," Mrs. Meadows told her brightly. "I seldom hear from him but he always mentions you—in a way that makes me quite sorry that I am too old to enjoy romance again myself."

That was a grain of comfort for the lovesick girl, but it could not sustain her indefinitely. Early in January, after a rather quiet Christmas celebration in the Curtis house, Winnie announced that she had accepted an invitation to spend a week in the winter camp of the Claibornes, friends whom she had made during the year but who seldom came to the Curtis mansion. It was entirely by accident that Billy discovered that the lovely little blond had not been with the Claibornes at all.

It was Bruce Kruger, who had really been at the Claiborne camp for a week of winter sports, who quite innocently revealed that Winnie had not been in the party. It was impossible for Billy to confront the girl, who had returned from her mysterious trip with a deeply satisfied glow in her shallow blue eyes, with her knowledge of Winnie's deceit. She feared to pry, lest she learn something that would blast the dearest hope she had in the world.

She could not even be sure that Winnie was hearing from Dal, too, but Viola, the maid, hinted broadly until Billy shut her up. As long as she did not know—

The thirty-first anniversary of the founding of the Curtis Store was a very different celebration than that of the year before. The three girls attended the big party, dressed very quietly, their jewelry discreetly locked in the safe in the old millionaire's library. Not even Leila Sampson was her old cordial self to Billy, and many of the salesmen were openly hostile to the "Cinderella girls."

T. Q. tried to pretend that everything was as it had always been, but after the party he sat for two long hours in his library, brooding, thinking remorseful, self-torturing thoughts. The three girls sensed his depression, could not settle down to sleep while he sat there, casting up accounts and, as they all uselessly suspected, judging them, weighing them, possibly rejecting all three of them.

During these months of Dal's absence Billy had practically withdrawn from the strange contest to ingratiate herself in the old man's favor, if indeed she had ever actively entered it. But Nyda and Winnie had not abated their efforts in the slightest. Winnie had been spending many hours a week with him in his library, typing his letters, cuddling against him as he read and corrected them. And Nyda, warned by intuition that he had penetrated her pretense of caring for children, had thrown herself into her work at the school for kindergarten teachers with what looked like a fanatical zeal.

At two o'clock Billy rose, threw a negligee over her night gown and slipped out of her room, her heart aching with pity for the lonely old man in the library below. She would find something to say to him that would comfort him, she resolved, forgetting completely, for the first time in months, the pain of her longing for Dal Romaine in her sincere affection and pity for the man who had tried to do so much for three ungrateful girls.

As she slipped noiselessly past Nyda's door she heard the low rumble of a man's voice, arguing, demanding, beating down Nyda's subdued but at

OUT OUR WAY.

By Williams

Mr. Rutledge's parents, after which they will go to Dallas, Tex., to make their home.

Word reached Burlington Junction recently that Herman Boyer, a former resident of this community, and a brother of Ernest, John and Gerald Boyer, and Mrs. Wes Miller and Mrs. R. N. Boyer, died suddenly at his home in Long Beach, Cal.

Albert Williams and his two daughters, living west of town, were host and hostesses to the following persons for a Memorial Day dinner: Mrs. Anna Babl, and son Roy Hoffman, of Tarkio, Mo. and Mrs. Paughman, and son of Shenandoah, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Staten of Gray Grove, Ia.; Mrs. Mary Hartness and son Elbert and family of Omaha, Neb.; Clarence Williams, Miss Lucy Gipe and Mrs. Florence Garrett.

Heroic efforts are now being made to secure a right-of-way for highway No. 18. As soon as the right-of-way can be secured, work of grading will begin. A number have already signed up, and others are favorably considering the matter. Engineer C. J. Buss-jager of the State Highway department was in town Wednesday and Thursday, consulting with the citizens of the community in reference to the matter.

The Rev. A. L. Ragsdale, pastor of the Christian Church, attended the Memorial services at Workman Chapel, Sunday afternoon, and gave the Memorial address. The services were largely attended.

Mrs. Arch Jones went to Shenandoah, Ia., Monday, where she attended the Memorial Day services. From there she went to Omaha, Neb.

S. S. Webb, who lives alone on his farm three miles south of town, was host to all his children last Sunday for dinner. The children and their families are: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Webb and children of St. Joseph, Mo. and Mrs. Cleo Mitchell and children, five miles east of town, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Dilley, of Elmo, and Mrs. Clarence Ballinger and daughter, Mildred, of Burlington Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold of St. Joseph, were in town Friday, the guests of their son, D. H. Arnold and family. Their grandson, Freddie Arnold, who has been in St. Joseph with his grandparents for the past three weeks, returned with them. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold were former residents of Burlington Junction, having moved to St. Joseph about three months ago.

Miss Elizabeth Frause, of Falls City, Neb., who has been at the head of the millinery department of the Junction Mercantile Company, having completed her work June 1, left for her home last Wednesday. While here Miss Frause made many friends who will look for her return later in the year.

Dal Romaine kept his promise to write, but his notes gave no clues as to his activities.

her ambition to become a kindergarten teacher, T. Q. equips a model school in his home where two days a week Nyda teaches the children of the cook and housekeeper and twins of a wealthy neighbor couple. Reports of her unkindness and carelessness reach T. Q., and he spies on her one day to learn if this is true. The charges are confirmed. When T. Q. lets Nyda know of his presence in the room, she quickly becomes the interested, sweet teacher she has posed as being.

Billy loses interest in her music and finally has a breakdown. T. Q. is disappointed in Nyda's treatment of some children placed under her care in a kindergarten room he has fitted for her, because she has expressed a desire to be a teacher. He decides they need a change and takes the three girls and Mrs. Meadows to Europe for several months. Upon their return, they find the town in an upheaval over a Hindu fortune teller. Dal and RALPH TRUMAN take Billy and Nyda to his suite. He tells Billy she is to marry a man whose description fits Dal Romaine. Nyda returns from her experience with terror-stricken face. Ralph says he believes the man has an accomplice in the town and when the Hindu Dal disappears simultaneously, Billy re-members these words.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, my God!" Nyda breathed, fear blanking her cheeks. "It says they found a book with every one of his appointments listed in it, and under each name all the dope he'd got on them. The district attorney says there's no doubt he was all set for the biggest blackmail campaign anyone ever pulled off in this man's town." She read on, her hands trembling so that the paper rattled. "Oh, it's all right!" she breathed with prayerful thankfulness. "The district attorney says the book will be kept under lock and key in his own office. He says that nobody but him will ever see it. He ought to destroy it! Good Lord, think of what might happen in this town if some crook got hold of it!"

"How did Namir Sadh escape?" Billy asked, her own breath coming more easily.

"Why, they raided his place last night, thinking they'd bag him," Nyda explained, "but he must have been tipped off right at the last minute. Some secret passage, I guess," she concluded with relief.

"A secret passage in a modern apartment house?" Billy grinned. "Don't be foolish!"

"Well, anyone—now you see him and now you don't! He didn't have time to open his safe and take what money he had on hand and the black book. They found seven hundred dollars in the safe, but of course he had a fortune stashed away somewhere, safe and sound. They didn't find a trace of him. They ought to have had the place surrounded by the police," she added fiercely. "The books! It's just like Ralph Truman to make a mess of it!"

"Maybe," Winnie suggested slyly, with a keen glance at Nyda's still pale face, "it's better for a good many people that Namir Sadh will not be brought to trial in Coffey. He might sling a few hot ones from the witness stand."

most hysterical words—words which Billy could not distinguish, for honor sent her hurrying back to her own room. After she had got back into bed, she lay there shaking with nervousness and fear, fear of some nameless, dreadful calamity that would involve all of them—the old man brooding in the library, terror-faunted Nyda Lomax, scheming little Winnie, and herself.

Burlington Junction

(By J. Howard Thompson)

Mr. and Mrs. John Rhodes who recently moved from here to make their home in Newton, Kan., were called to Red Oak, Ia., a few days ago on account of the serious illness of Mr. Rhodes' father. From Red Oak Mr. Rhodes and her son, Cecil, came to Burlington Junction to spend Decoration Day, and while here were the guests of Mrs. Florence Garrett. They were from here to Charinda for a short visit with Mrs. Rhodes' father, who is also quite sick, before returning to their home.

Miss Frieda Crouse of Mound City was in town a few hours early in the week, visiting friends. She taught in the grades in the public school last year, and is now at home with her parents in Mound City.

Miss Helen Good, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Good of this place, who recently was graduated from Baker University, Baldwin, Kan., was voted by the student body as the "most popular student in Baker." She was tendered the position of musical director in the public schools of Baldwin, and has accepted.

Definite plans are now completed for the jubilee services at the Methodist Church Sunday. A letter from Dr. Robinson says he will be on hand rain or shine, and the dinner will be served as planned. If the weather prevents serving it on the lawn, it will be served in the south room of the church. The Rev. W. S. Woodhull of Maryville will preach in the afternoon. There will be no service at night.

Miss Etta Trusty has been offered a position in the schools at Corning, Mo., for next year. She is a recent graduate from the State Teachers' College in Maryville, receiving her bachelor of Science degree from that institution.

A rain of more or less intensity visited here last Thursday morning, and ground was getting dry, and it will be quite general. The top of the prove a great blessing to the growing crops, the gardens and early fruit.

Miss Catherine Ragsdale, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Ragsdale, who attended College at Camden Point, Mo., this past year, is now at home with her parents, and will remain at home during the summer. She was graduated from the Burlington Junction High School last year.

There were forty guests at the reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. Loyd Wilson, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weymer Graves, last Wednesday night. Violin, mandolin, piano and vocal music, and a playlet, with a Southern setting, under the direction of Mrs. Mitchell, comprised the program of the evening. It had been 38 years since Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been here, and they note with pleasure many changes in that time. They will be gone from their home in Pay-alup, Wash., four months before their return.

Harold Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Howell, hasn't quite as much finger on his right hand, as a result of getting mixed up with a lawn mower a few days ago, resulting in cutting the end of one of his fingers off at the root of the nail.

The chautauqua committee has received programs and advertising matter for the Chautauqua to be held here later in the summer. The definite dates are fixed as July 29, 30 and 31, and August 1 and 2.

The strawberry crop in this community is of a very fine quality, and a very fine yield. The berries are selling at the patch at 60 cents a gallon, and are finding a ready sale.

Sam Daugherty, living eight miles west of town, has recently had all his farm buildings, including his house and barn and other buildings, painted.

Miss Esther Fordyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fordyce, who taught in the schools at Graham for the past two years, has finished her work there and is at home with her parents for the summer. She has not yet determined just what she will do next year.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will hold a meeting next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. S. Corken, two miles southwest of town. In addition to the regular lesson, dealing with apostle women, Miss Pauline Walker will sing, and a playlet, "What Happened to Jane" will be presented.

At the regular meeting of the Rebekah Lodge last Tuesday night, after a short business session, in charge of the Noble Grand, Mrs. Mary Parker, an interesting social was held. Following the social hour, refreshments consisting of sandwiches, strawberries, cream and coffee were served.

The Christian Women's Missionary Society of the Christian Church will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Nicholas, two miles south of town, with Mrs. D. B. Warren as leader. Mrs. Ed Hacker will be assistant hostess. The officers of the year will be elected at this meeting.

Material for Platte River Bridge Arrives

200-Foot Span to Be Erected Over the River Between Guilford and Barnard—To Cost $10,000.

Material for one of the best bridges in Nodaway County has arrived at Guilford, to span the Platte river. The Guilford Times this week stated two carloads of structural steel is on the track there awaiting erection.

The bridge contract has been let to the Standard Bridge Company of Omaha, and W. W. Randall of Maryville will do the work. It will be a 200-foot span across the Platte on the road between Guilford and Barnard.

The straightening of this road at Long Branch and at the Pete Rhoads farm, is expected to develop a cross-country arterial highway which will carry much traffic between Holt and Gentry counties.

The new bridge will cost approximately $10,000. It has been shipped from Nebraska where it was erected over a river at a cost of $16,000. However, the course of the river it spanned, was changed recently with high waters, leaving the structure over a dry river bed.

Martin Chuzac, Modest Guerin, Milton Hill, Marie Lemoine, Martha Bulloch, Mon. Jules Eli, M. Emile Lemoine, Petite Renee, Pierre Ducharte, Primevere, Ruota Superba, Reine Hortense, Solange, Sarah Bernhardt, Some Ganoka, Therese, Toro No Maki, Walter Faxon and Grover Cleveland.

Among the larger growers Mr. Wilfley said that the Japanese and single varieties are becoming more and more popular.

Among the flowers which won blue ribbons for Mr. Wilfley were these: Festiva maxima while also won a second; Martha Bulloch, won two firsts, a fine variety, but very slow in growing; Livingstone, atrosanguinea, modest Guerin, Frances Willard, primevere, Lady Alexandra Duff won a second prize.

"Naturally I consider the peony the queen of all flowers, with apologies to Dr. L. E. Dean. Interest in peonies is growing and soon Maryville will have a number of good peony gardens."

Mr. Wilfley won the first place in the flower show last year also.

Mrs. Jackson's A General Garden.

"Many Maryville gardens are finer than mine. It was my common, everyday perennials that won third place for me in the show," Mrs. Jackson declared. She had no special flowers that won in the show. She has many, many perennials and contributed many different flowers to the annual display.

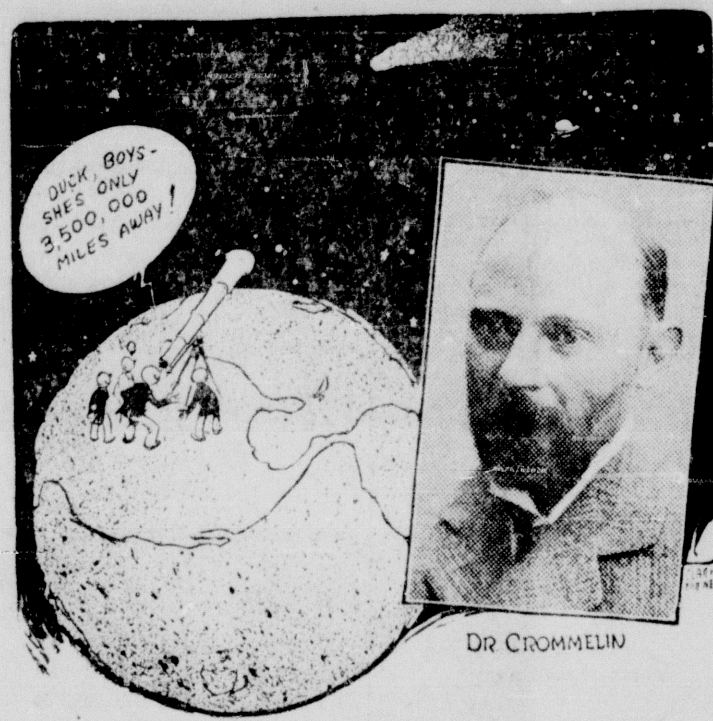

Among her ribbon takers were prethrum, anchusa, cerastium, heuchera, garden heliotrope, sweet rocket, columbine, poppies, iris, Russian olive and butter cups.

Mrs. Jackson did not expect her flowers to take many ribbons and, she points out, it shows that anyone who has any flowers at all should contribute them to the show. They may win. Perhaps someone at home has lovelier ones, but unless they are displayed they cannot win the ribbons.

Earlier in the season Mrs. Jackson had 350 scarlet Darwin tulips in bloom.

Among the perennials which Mrs. Jackson has planted are: hardy corn flowers, Siberian iris, roses, hardy larkspur or delphinium, baby breath digitalis, lilies of the valley, Siberian wall flower, garden pinks, mountain daisies, shasta daisies, gailardis statice, lythrum, platycodon, lychnis or Jerusalem cross, blue bell, achillea, false dragon head, blue bonnets, coreopsis, fever few, forget-me-nots, jacob's ladder, veronica or speed well, tritoma or red hot poker, Canadian violets, mallows, yarrow, phlox, daffodils, rose mullain.

Has 70 Varieties of Iris.

Chilton Robinson, third winner, has 70 varieties of irises in his garden. For three years he has been acquiring his collection.

The "Scandinave" and "Cecile Minton" were among Mr. Robinson's irises which took first and second prizes.

A collection of six varieties, winners, especially fine irises include Shrewsbury, Aurea, Rheinische, Mary Garden, Her Majesty, and Hiawatha.

The iris should be planted very shallow and it thrives on being baked by the sun, Mr. Robinson explained.

Irises and peonies are the two flowers least susceptible to pests and disease, he said.

Bertrand H. Farr, pioneer in American iris introductions, was the first American to do outstanding work in hybridization and in producing new varieties. Most of the iris produced by Mr. Farr were given Indian names. It is not hard to distinguish his productions, as one can be reasonably sure that he has been consistent in using the Indian names.

Sir Arthur Hort, English introducer of iris, used the names of various Shakespearean characters for his productions such as Juliet.

William M. Mohr, a Californian, has used Spanish names for his productions.

Varities Preserve Identity. Mr. Robinson explained that the various varieties do not mix. Planting varieties close together does not cause a fusion of them.

Many persons ask why irises never have seeds. Only occasionally does the iris set seed by pollination. Conditions were favorable this year and many irises have seeds. Most new introductions in irises are from hand-pollinated flowers.

The iris has no true reds, pinks or blues. That is the main thing that hybridizers are working for. There are irises that are called pink and blue and white, but in reality they are shades of purple or lavender.

Mr. Robinson is a member of the American Iris Society.

Both Mr. Wilfley and Mr. Robinson have many other flowers in their gardens besides peonies and irises. Mr. Robinson has started a wild flower garden especially interesting. Both have beautiful roses. Forget-me-nots are one of the favorite flowers at the Robinson home.

One of the most attractive displays in the Robinson garden this spring was a double row of "common everyday" cream colored irises, planted next to a row of rich yellow day lilies. A row of irises was a feature of the Wilfley garden, also.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Gile, their daughter, Esther, and son, Homer, will drive to Skidmore tomorrow to visit Mr. Gile's aunt, Mrs. T. K. Brown, who is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gaylord Dilts.

BANKERS TIE AFTER HEROIC GAME IN MUD

"Mudders" and "Sliders" Battle Eight Innings To Score Of 11-All.—No Casualties.

After the bankers settle the baseball supremacy among themselves, the printers will post a challenge to play either Bankers team, or a combined bankers team if they really want to make it interesting.

Any time before dark on a dry, diamond, with either a playground or official baseball, and the umpire to be an interested party.

Due to the inability of a reporter to plough through the mud to the fair grounds last evening and also because he feared he might miss a mess of greens for supper, no box score was available today on the Maryville bankers' 11-all tie game.

Reports from the players on each side indicated that no such game ever has been played on the diamond at the fairgrounds, especially with an indoor baseball. Although no names had been affixed to the teams, they might well have been called the "Mudders" and the "Sliders", due to the condition of the diamond.

The Sliders had only eight men and an umpire when the game was called at 5 p. m. After all accounts had balanced for the day, and accurate check-up of all scores revealed that another game would have to be played to decide the winner.

It is understood the umpire, H. E. Hudson, gave positive satisfaction, especially to the Mudders, but his son, Herbert, playing third base for the Sliders, differed with several of his decisions, particularly on one occasion when he tagged Rip Deatherage between second and third and the runner was called safe.

No home runs or three baggers were clouted by the bankers, but several two-base hits and many clean singles were said to have been made, as indicated by the score. The name was called by the umpire in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Despite the fact that Herbert Hudson resented the decisions of the umpire, the game was ended without any casualties. All agreed the Bankers were a great aggregation of ball players.

Philip Simpich, playing third base for the Mudders proved that he was a good wader, as he sloughed around in a foot of water most of the game.

There was really only one sensational play made during the entire fracas. With the Sliders having Gillam on second and Wolfers on third, Curfman up and knocked out a single, theoretically scoring both the men who were on base. However, the umpire ruled that the Sliders only counted one run, as Gillam scored first, passing Wolfers in a slippery, sloppy fashion near the plate.

The line-ups: Mudders—Ellis, catcher; Lawrence, pitcher; Hamilton, first base; Allen, second base; Curmott, short stop; Simpich, third base; Snyder, Deatherage and Bosch, fielders.

Sliders—Bird, catcher; Gillam, pitcher; Groves, first base; Wolfers, second base; Davis, short stop; Herbert Hudson, third base; Curfman and Soners, fielders. Wolfers covered lots of ground by holding down second base and center field.

Special Telephone Line for Coolidge

President's Vacation Plan Necessitates Stringing of 1,200 Miles of Wire.

Omaha, June 4. — Records in telephone and telegraph wire construction are expected to be broken by twenty-three construction gangs, totaling 300 men, now at work stringing 1,200 miles of telephone wire from Sidney, Neb., to Rapid City, S. D., before President Coolidge arrives at the latter point to spend his summer vacation.

According to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, seven carloads of material are on the way to Sidney and ten extra construction crews have been called in to help the Nebraska crews with the work.

Seven thousand poles and crossarms will be set. Cost of the work is estimated at about $200,000. Construction is already under way despite the fact that the chief executive has not yet announced definitely his intention of going to the Black Hills for his vacation.
